

Leigh Classic Cinema Club

With a core group of around 10 regular members, Leigh Classic Cinema Club was in need of a financial investment to not only allow the club to continue, but also to expand the numbers and ensure the club's sustainability.

In September 2016, Leigh Classic Cinema Club successfully applied for an Ambition for Ageing investment, which allowed them to buy equipment, a film licence and promotional material.

Now having their own equipment and promoting their group, the numbers increased.

In June 2017, Tyldesley Classic Cinema Club was born, welcoming even more people to the world of classic cinema.

Leigh Film Society also scooped three awards in 2017: The Film Discovery Award, The Community Award and Film Society of the Year award.

In 2018 they won the Film Discovery award (for the second year running) and the Best Film Programme award. They also received the Queen's Award for voluntary service.
